

TAXIDERMY FOAM

The cost-effective, environmentally friendly alternative – from the leader in polyurethane foam systems.

 foam supplies, inc.

Your expert work deserves a better taxidermy foam. One that's better for your business — and better for the environment.

Doesn't your best wildlife art deserve the highest quality taxidermy foam at its core? At Foam Supplies, Inc., we've led the polyurethane industry since 1972, and are proud to offer foam kits that are ideal for taxidermy use – and that are also economical, environmentally friendly and delivered in the size that's best for your business.

Compare our pricing, and you'll find that FSI taxidermy foam costs significantly less than our competitors' products. Plus – because no two businesses are alike – we offer our foam kits in many different sizes, so you're sure to find one that's best for your needs now, and in the future.

But it's the difference you can't see in FSI taxidermy foam that makes it an even better choice. FSI taxidermy foam is environmentally benign, and doesn't contain any ingredients or agents that hurt the environment. Which means that FSI gives you a truly "green" choice in taxidermy foam at no additional cost – in fact, at a much lower cost!

Add up all the benefits, and you'll see that FSI taxidermy foam is the best way to help preserve our natural environment, while you preserve its creatures – and your profits. For more information or to order, contact Foam Supplies today.

The taxidermy foam that's right for any size project, large or small.

Whether you're mass producing forms or creating individual works of wildlife art, high-quality FSI taxidermy foam offers you the flexibility, versatility and performance to handle any size job. Once the two components have been mixed and allowed to set, the foam can be cut and shaped to any contour. Yet it is also chip resistant and durable enough to hold tacks and staples.

Wide range of densities and elastomers available.

FSI taxidermy foam kits are available in various sizes.
